Nicky swoops on the title

NICKY Moss was flying high after she swooped to take the British women's paragliding championship.

The 38 year-old, from Loughborough, proved she deserves to be number one in the female pilot rankings by taking the title in Spain, capping a remarkable recovery for the British record-holder, who crashed to earth while competing in Australia at the beginning of the year.

For her incredible story, see page 15.
